

LAB Protocol

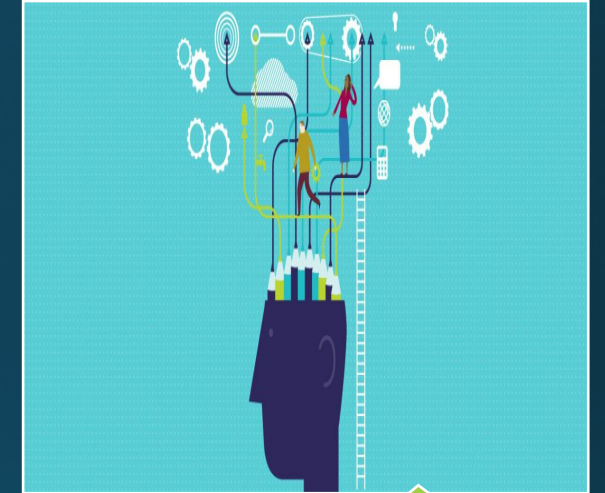

Before the start of lab experiments students are made familiar with the experiments to be conducted in the lab, tools used in the lab and the importance of the lab experiments.

WHY

In this process the students will know, what are they learning in the lab and why are they learning it.

Students understand that experiments are interconnected with the theoretical concepts taught in classes.

Students are encouraged to find applications of the experiments, innovate and build their own projects.